The latest glimpse of news from North being an ominous silence at Raieigh. It well known that Mr. Davis is almost unanimously the second choice of the people in all the counties of the District outside of Lafayette, and it is believed that no clique in this county will have the audacity to put a straw in the way of his unanimous recommendation by the Counties. It is, nevertheless, a great unanimous recommendation by the Counties of the Radical Secretary of State, who asserted that, after all, he'd "be d—d if he didn't believe Merrimon was elected by a small majority." All he needed was to have his name and character, his merits and prospects vigorously, plainly, calmly presented to our thinking people. St. Louis will send a delegation largely for him to next Wednesday's convention. Many of the investigation, his nomination seems almost a foregone conclusion. And he will make a governor to whom our state can point with honest pride, as the noblest exemplar of that mighty movement of progress and purification, of which Missouri is the nursing mother. He is beyond all cavil, THE MAN FOR THE PLACE. He is one of us, the people. He is no politi-cian—no worn-out, effete hack. He is a business man, a financier, of profou sagacity and wide experience. SHORT AND SWEET.

Stephens, of Boonville, Mo., is spoken of in high terms by the press generally.

A short time since, through the courter of the first National Bank, we had the honor of an introduction to this gentleman. If first impressions are correct, Mr. Stephens is decidedly a man of commanding manners, shrewd and dignified in his bearing.

Mr. Stephens' career as a self-made man shows his indomitable perseverence. The banking house in Boonville built up by this gentleman, is proof in itself of his good business qualities and his fair, honorable dealings.

Such men are rare in these days of corruption. We therefore think Missourinhas done well in announcing the name of Joseph L. Stephens as her future Governor.

This is that truth: No person has ever yet made the fact known that he proposed to support or actually did support my nomination, whether at Cincinnati or Baltimore, or in any action which resulted in sending delegates to either Convention, as a basis o claim for office. No one who favored my nomination before either Convention has sought office at my hands, either for himself or any one else, nor has any one suggested to me that 1 might strengthen myself as a candidate by promising to apoint any one to any important office point any one to any important office whatever in any instance. Of this I am certain. Some of the smaller fry of poli-ticians have, since my double nomination, hinted to me by letter that I might increase my chances by promising a postofilee or some such place to my volunteer corres-pondents respectively. I have not usual-ly responded to these overtures, but I now give general notice that, should I be elect-ed. I will consider the claims of these unimely aspirants after those of more modest and reticent persons shall have been est and reticent persons shall have been fully satisfied. [Applause.] In two or three instances I have been asked to say whether I would not, if elected, confine my appointments to Republicans. I answer these by pointing to that plank of the Cincinnati platform wherein all who concur in the principles herein set forth, are cordially invited to participate in their establishment and indication. I never yet heard of a man who invited his neighbors to a house raising and then proceeded to kick them out of it as soon as the roof was fairly over his head. For my own part I recognize every honest man who approves and adheres to the Cincinnati platform as my political brother, and as such fully entitled to my confidence and friendly re-assumed or paid by the Union. No Southern man who could be elected to the Legslature or made a colonel of a militia regiment ever suggested the pensioning of rebel soldiers, or any of them even as remote possibility.

All who nominated me were perfectl aware that I had upheld and justified Fed eral legislation to repress Ku-klux con-spiracies and outrages, though I had long ago insisted as strenuously as I now do that a complete annesty, and a gennine oblivion of a bloody and hateful past. rould do more for the suppression and itter extinction of such outrages, than al corpus acts ever devised by man. Wrong and crime must be suppressed and punished, but far wiser and nobler is the legislation and policy by which they are prevented. From those who support me in the South, I have but one demanding the south, I have been south, I have bee wholesome example of Bullock, of Georgia, and seek the shades of private life. The darker and darker those shades, the better for themselves and for mankind. The hope that my election would has enthis much desired hegira of thieving carpet baggers, has reconciled to the necessity of supporting me many who would otherwise have hesitated and probably refused. Our fellow-citizens deposed and partially exiled the Tammany Ring, who had stolen about thirty millions from the city of New York. That was a most gigantic robbery, but they hurled its contribute in the impotency of infamy; but the thieving carpet baggers have stolen at least three times that amount, and stolen it from a laready impoverished and needy people. They still flaunt their preposterous villainy in the highest places in the land, and are addressed as "Honograble' and "Excellency." (Applause.) I think I hear a voice from the honest people of all the States, declaring their iniquity shall be gainful and insolent no longer, at the farthest, than the5th March next. By that time those criminals will have heard a national verific pronounced.

By that time those criminals will bave heard a national verdict pronounced, that will cause them to fold their tents like the Arabs, and as silently steal away. That, I trust, will be the end of their stealing at the cost of the good of our country, and the well being of her people.
